

Consider purchasing re-refined motor oil next time you change your oil. Modern re-refined oils pass the same quality and performance standards as do virgin oils; in fact, they are chemically identical. Ask your motor oil provider if they carry re-refined oil, and if they don't, request that they start offering it.

Make sure your tires are properly inflated-it will improve your gas mileage, increase safety and help your tires last longer. Rotating your tires regularly will also lengthen their life. If you are looking to buy new tires, consider getting radials. They improve gas mileage by up to 10 percent!
